

Service Overview

We deliver a 20ft container to your site on the back of our truck. The container remains on the truck for the entire process while you load or unload your goods. Our driver stays on-site while this happens, and once you're finished, we simply drive the container away.

This means there's no need for a separate delivery drop-off and later collection, which can add significant cost and coordination - especially for sites far from ports or railheads. Everything is completed in a single visit, saving both time and money.

Advantages of Live Loading & Unloading

No specialist lifting equipment required. As the container never leaves the truck, there's no need for cranes, hiabs, swinglifters, or other lifting machinery. This reduces equipment hire costs and simplifies job planning by removing the need to coordinate multiple contractors.

Reduced Ground Space Requirements

Traditional container drops require a large, clear, and level area for safe placement. With live loading/unloading, the container stays on the truck, allowing us to operate in tighter driveways, small yards, and restricted access sites.

Works around Overhead Restrictions

This service is well-suited to areas with powerlines, tree branches, or low structures where cranes or lifting equipment would normally be unsafe or impractical.

Minimal Traffic Management Requirements

As the truck is only on site for a short duration, it often avoids the need for traffic management plans or council permits that are typically required when containers are left in public or roadside areas.

Flexible Labour Options

You will have the assistance of our driver and additional labour can be provided if required. You are also welcome to supply your own labour to assist with the move, which can help speed up the process and reduce costs.
